zen128 – Ix Prospectum: Paint My Face

Tue, 2015-12-29 06:05 | arnd

Album art:

Catalog No.: zen128

Release date: December, 2015

electronic ambient beats

1. Ambient four
2. Ambient three
3. Ambient two
4. Pak Louvre Fan
5. Ambient one
6. I Remember You

This album with ambient character wants to keep even a conventional and an open sound experimentation, which is the basis of the musical ideas of Ix Prospectum. Contaminations come from personal experiences through a musical journey that has formed over time and went through different musical styles.

zen126 – Nemeton: N/um

Sun, 2015-10-25 17:51 | arnd

Album art:

Catalog No.: zen126

Release date: October, 2015

a set of experimental ambient drone pieces inspired by San Bushman rock art and cosmology

1. Eland Potency
2. Rock Hive
3. Lighting in
4. Rain Swifts

All sounds and images were derived from the San, their rock art, the animals that they hold sacred, and the environments in which they live. These were processed digitally, to provide an echo of the transformations characteristic of San shamanistic practice. (For more information on San rock art see this Wikipedia article.)

zen124 – edge of october: shores of the subconscious

Wed, 2015-09-30 12:42 | arnd

Album art:

Catalog No.: zen124

Release date: September, 2015

a dark brooding drone/ambient music with dense atmosphere and delicate sounds

1. from distant ports
2. long since forgotten
3. sea of consciousness
4. the crest of every wave
5. high tide
6. waves crashing ashore
7. low tide
8. debris
9. reconciliation

"I imagine my consciousness to be like a vast ocean. Many ships leave many ports, filled with thoughts, ideas, names, numbers, information, memories. Most make it to their desired ports unhindered, some are delayed by storms, other unfortunate ships are simply lost at sea, never to be heard from again.

At the center of this enormous sea lies an island; the subconscious, with its stony, unforgiving shoreline. A chance few ships are sucked into the pull of this island, and the ships are dashed apart on its rocky shores, spilling their contents onto the beach.

The fact that these ships meet their fate here is not random: they are brought here for a reason. I must sort through the debris and make sense of what I find, there are very important lessons to be learned, parallels to be drawn. These songs are a reflection of this process, which often takes place quietly in the background, but can sometimes become a crisis if left untouched."

zen122 – phenotypo: airships at 4 am

Sat, 2015-09-05 18:35 | arnd

Album art:

Catalog No.: zen122

Release date: September, 2015

a bright minimal ambience

1. Airships Part 1
2. A Report on Balloons
3. At the End of Continents Part 1
4. We Saw the Storms
5. Cloud Scraping With Loved Ones
6. At the End of Continents Part 2
7. Airships Part 2
8. Four am

These tracks were influenced by three writers: Barry Hannah with his wonderful collection of short stories, "Airships," a myriad of Donald Barthelme's work of focused American absurdity, and the romantic SF (precursor to Steampunk) work of Michael Moorcock, especially, "The Nomad of the Time Streams."
